HOW TO READ YOUR ANOC

Each fall, usually in October/November, Medicare Advantage plans, including KelseyCare Advantage, send you an Annual Notice of Change (ANOC) letter. Oftentimes this letter gets filed away without a second glance, but your ANOC contains important information on benefit changes that will go into effect the following January. This document highlights any significant changes, including new benefits available to you.

The beginning of your ANOC shows a brief Summary Chart. This chart compares your current year costs, such as your monthly premium, maximum out-of-pocket costs, and copays for in-network primary and specialist visits, to your upcoming years costs under the same plan.

CONVENIENT IN-HOME ASSESSMENTS!

KelseyCare Advantage has partnered with Care Connectors Medical Group (CCMG) to provide in-home, no-cost Annual Wellness Visits and recommended preventative screenings. Members may receive a letter or a phone call from Care Connectors Medical Group (CCMG) about scheduling your in-home assessment. We encourage you to participate in the screening. This is not meant to replace your normal in-clinic care, but it is an extra benefit that includes services above and beyond what you might receive in the clinic:

- Preventative Screenings
- Fall Risk Assessment
- A health system review
- Review/discuss chronic conditions and medications
- Activity of daily living review
- Home Safety Check
- A list of items to discuss with your primary care provider (PCP)

Your Kelsey-Seybold PCP will receive documentation of what took place during your in-home assessment. We hope that you participate and find the visit beneficial. If you have any questions, please call Member Services at 713-442-2273.

WINTER HOLIDAY NUTRITION TIPS

The holidays are almost here and it can be so easy to overindulge. We want to help! Here are some tips to help you stay healthy during this tasty and tempting holiday season.

1. STAY HYDRATED

Strive to stay hydrated by drinking plenty of water. Drinking excess sugary or alcoholic beverages and not enough water can leave you dehydrated. Try drinking a full 8oz of water before starting your meal.

2. EAT REGULARLY

Avoid skipping meals in anticipation of one large meal in a day. Ensuring that you eat balanced meals spread evenly throughout the day can prevent overeating.

3. CONTINUE PHYSICAL ACTIVITY

Don't forget to move! Movement such as walking or chair exercises can help your body process the different foods eaten during the holiday season. Exercise has many other benefits including improved mood, better sleep quality and helping blood sugar management.

4. CHECK OUT THE SPREAD

When eating at a holiday gathering where foods might be served family- or buffet-style, it's helpful to do a walk-through before serving yourself. This allows you to see what's offered so you can aim to serve yourself a balanced meal. Put vegetables on your plate first.

5. STAY MINDFUL

Continue to practice mindfulness when eating. This can include eating slowly in order to enjoy your food and staying aware of when you're full or hungry.

6. TRAVELING?

If you're traveling, do your best to plan ahead. Pack some balanced snacks for yourself to have in case you get hungry. Or bring a reusable water bottle to help you stay hydrated. If possible, find out what your schedule might include so you can make sure to eat regularly around your planned activities.

7. HIT THE SNOOZE BUTTON

Make sure to get plenty of rest each night. Inadequate sleep can cause irregularities in the chemicals that tell our body when we're hungry and when we're full.

The holidays are a time to relax, enjoy family, friends, and life! Keep these tips in mind to help you enjoy the season to the fullest.

OCTOBER IS BREAST CANCER AWARENESS MONTH

While most of us are generally aware of breast cancer, many fail to take the necessary steps to check for possible signs of the disease in its earliest stages.

The American Cancer Society reminds us that finding breast cancer early and receiving treatment are the most effective ways to prevent breast cancer deaths. Breast cancer that is detected early, when it's small and hasn't spread, is easier to treat with a positive outcome.

Getting regular screenings is the most reliable way to find breast cancer early. The American Cancer Society has screening guidelines for women at average risk of breast cancer, and for those at high risk for breast cancer.

Screenings for breast cancer are designed to find any traces of the disease before they cause symptoms (like a lump). Screenings refers to tests and exams used to find a disease in people who don't have any symptoms. Early detection means finding and diagnosing a disease earlier than if you'd waited for symptoms to start.

The American Cancer Society has developed the following guidelines for women at average risk for breast cancer – meaning they do not have a personal history of breast cancer, a strong family history of breast cancer or a genetic mutation known to increase risk of breast cancer and have not had chest radiation therapy before age 30.

- Women between 40 and 44 have the option to start screening with a mammogram every year.
- Women 45 to 54 should get mammograms every year.
- Women 55 and older can switch to a mammogram every other year, or they can choose to continue yearly mammograms. Screening should continue as long as a woman is in good health and is expected to live at least 10 more years.
- All women should understand what to expect when getting a mammogram for breast cancer screening.

Be sure to talk to your doctor about breast cancer screening, especially if there is a history of breast cancer or other types of cancer in your family. And learn more about cancer detection, prevention and treatment on the American Cancer Society website.

FIGHT THE FLU

Flu season is here and as expected it's time to get your flu shot!

Many of us have become accustomed to getting an annual flu shot or at least hearing about it everywhere we go – it's certainly nothing new. But this year, getting a flu vaccine could be more important than ever.

Thanks to wide-spread pandemic precautions, the 2020 and 2021 flu seasons were mild. However, as precautions minimize and we return to a new "normal," viruses and germs will circulate again and may come back with vengeance. Fewer flu infections from the previous seasons can possibly lead to a larger flu outbreak in the current season as fewer people have developed immunity. The CDC is predicting the current flu season could start earlier and be more severe.

WHAT CAN I DO?

Your best defense against flu and its complications is to get your annual flu shot. Unfortunately, only about half of all Americans get an annual flu vaccine each year and this number is trending lower in recent years. Of all age groups, the 65 and over crowd faces the greatest risk of developing serious complications from flu. We can't lose sight of the importance of this vaccine.

There are several higher dose flu vaccines that are specifically designed for senior adults. They all offer extra protection beyond what a standard flu shot provides. None of them will guarantee that you won't get the flu, but they will lower your risk.

Talk to your Kelsey-Seybold Clinic physician or pharmacist regarding which vaccine might work best for you as well as any potential side-effects.

WHEN SHOULD I GET THE FLU SHOT?

Flu season typically starts in October, peaks December through February, and usually lasts until May. The CDC recommends getting a flu vaccine by the end of October to be fully vaccinated, since it takes two weeks to reach full immunity.

WHERE CAN I GO TO GET MY FLU SHOT?

Flu shots are available at all Kelsey-Seybold Clinic locations and appointments are recommended to avoid delays.

- Some clinic locations offer Saturday appointments!
- You can get your flu shot at a scheduled doctor's visit.
- At any of our network pharmacies, just show them your member ID card and get vaccinated!
- Or, call to schedule an appointment with an immunization nurse at 713-442-0000.
- You can also schedule through your MyKelsey Online account.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Melanie Mouzoon, MD, FAAP, FABM

Dr. Mouzoon is the Managing Physician for Immunization Practices at Kelsey-Seybold Clinic.

After earning her medical degree in 1982 from The University of Texas Health Sciences Center at Houston and completing her Pediatrics internship at the University of Kentucky in 1983, she returned for her residency at The University of Texas Health Sciences Center at Houston, finishing in 1985. Dr. Mouzoon speaks Spanish and Farsi.

HOW MUCH WILL THE FLU SHOT COST ME?

The flu shot is FREE and no charge to you.

IF I AM UP TO DATE ON MY COVID VACCINES, DO I STILL NEED TO GET THE FLU SHOT?

The Covid vaccines do not protect against flu viruses and vice versa. Now more than ever, it is crucial to stay up to date on ALL vaccinations that can help prevent disease, hospitalizations, death and prevent burden on our healthcare system. If you are due for both vaccines, the CDC states that it is okay to get both the flu and Covid vaccine or booster at the same time.

Take the next step: Protect yourself, your family, and your friends. Schedule a flu shot today. It's your best shot at prevention!

HOLIDAY GATHERINGS IN THE COVID ERA

It's important to remember as the holidays draw near that COVID-19 is still around. It's still making people sick, including some sick enough to have to go to the hospital. Even though many people are saying the pandemic is over, COVID-19 could be an uninvited guest at your next celebration.

There are things you can do to protect yourself and your guests. Here's what you can do right now:

- Get up to date on your COVID-19 vaccines. Being fully vaccinated and boosted makes it less likely that you are infected, less likely that you will spread it if you do get infected, and less likely to end up in the hospital.
- Stock up on COVID-19 tests.
- Assume that other people have COVID-19. As more and more people get COVID-19, it's more likely that you'll run into them. Begin taking common sense precautions today so you don't ruin the celebration.

Here's what you can do before the event:

- Get tested. Do an at-home COVID-19 test before you attend any big events to help lower risk for everyone.
- Stay home if you're sick. If your test comes back positive, don't risk other people's health and safety. Call the organizer and let them know you can't make it.
- Wear your mask. If you've been exposed to COVID-19, remember that even if you are vaccinated and boosted, you could still pass the virus to others (although the chance is lower). If you choose to attend an event after a COVID exposure, make sure you keep your mask on and think about remote options to help protect others.

Here's what you can do during the event:

- Outside events are much safer than inside events. If your event has indoor and outdoor features, try to stay outside, weather-permitting.
- Consider wearing a mask. Even though you're up-to-date on your vaccines, it's still possible to get COVID-19. Wearing a mask at these events can help to lower your risk even more. If you do wear a mask, it should be an N95 or KN95, or double masks.
- Be careful when eating. If the event has food, eat outside if possible. And minimize the amount of time your mask is off if eating or drinking inside.

Here's what you can do after the event:

- Get tested if you hear that someone who was there tested positive. If you were exposed to COVID-19, you should get tested three to five days after the event. And you should wear a mask for 10 days after the exposure, so you don't accidentally give it to someone else.

There are certain party guests that none of us want. COVID-19 is one of them. Enjoy your celebration, but be sure to make health and safety a priority.

SETTING A HOLIDAY GIFT GIVING BUDGET

The holidays are right around the corner, and it's easy to get in over-your-head financially during this season of giving. To help avoid that from occurring, here are some tips to help you set a gift giving budget!

First, create a budget for the gifts that you want to give. There are several ways to do this.

- Set aside a percentage of your budget to go towards gift giving. It's easiest to start this early in the year and depending on your annual income, experts recommend anywhere between 1% - 5% to be saved for gift giving.
- Another method is to determine how much you want to spend per person and add that up for your budget.
- Or, you can create categories for family, friends, neighbors, service providers, etc. Set a dollar amount for each category, then divide by the number of people in each category. This will give you a budget amount for each person.

To help your budget stay on track:

- Consider setting up a separate gift giving bank account so that you know that all of the money in that account is for that purpose.

- Take advantage of sales and buy gifts early if possible.
- If you need to bring in some extra income, consider taking on holiday work, babysitting, or dog sitting.
- Instead of buying gifts for some people who may be on your list, consider making something for them, or giving them a holiday card with some homemade treats.
- Look for meaningful gifts that may not cost a lot of money, such as a book from someone's favorite author, a gift certificate to their favorite restaurant or that can be used towards something they really want. You might even ask other family or friends to go in with you towards a gift for someone special.

Remember, it doesn't matter how much or how little a gift costs. What matters is that it comes from the heart! If you plan on giving gifts this holiday season, then make it as stress-free as possible by setting a budget and sticking to it!

CONQUERING THE HOLIDAY BLUES

For most people, the holiday season is a time for celebration, parties and gatherings among family and friends. But for many others, it is the most emotionally challenging time of the year. Stress and anxiety can build throughout November and December, causing even those who typically are content most of the year to experience isolation, sadness and a lack of fulfillment. This is often referred to as the “holiday blues.”

According to Kelsey-Seybold’s Chief of Occupational Medicine Patrick Carter, M.D., M.B.A., F.A.A.F.P., the leading causes for suffering depression, or feeling “blue,” may include fatigue from increased holiday activity, financial worries, and family tensions.

Dr. Carter notes that setting unrealistic expectations for oneself increases the likelihood of becoming depressed. People typically hold on to what they remember as the “ideal” holiday from past years and then become sad when they can’t reproduce it. There are also expectations around the holidays that everything must be “perfect,” however, perfection is almost impossible to achieve.

To reduce heightened expectations, Dr. Carter says people should try to be honest with themselves about what they can and cannot do during the season. He urges everyone to set realistic goals for the holidays, pace themselves and get enough rest so they don’t feel run down.

Here are Dr. Carter’s suggestions for managing the factors that may cause stress, sadness or anxiety this holiday season:

- Money issues.

Rather than running up credit card debt over the holidays, consider cutting your gift list to the bare minimum and setting a realistic spending cap. Family members will understand.

- Memories of a deceased loved one.

This can be especially saddening if these are the first holidays without your special someone. Remind yourself that dying is a natural part of life. Try to spend time with friends and family who understand and share your loss.

- Strained family dynamics.

In today’s world with high divorce rates and fragmented families, stress is commonly experienced as family members quarrel over sharing holiday time with the children following a divorce. Try creating new family traditions with new memories. These don’t have to be expensive or elaborate.

Patrick Carter, MD, MBA, FAFAP

Dr. Patrick Carter is Medical Director for Care Coordination and Quality Improvement and Chief of Occupational Medicine at Kelsey-Seybold Clinic.

In 2002 and 2003, Dr. Carter was the recipient of the Leonard D. Moise Teaching Award from the Family Medicine Residency Program at Baylor College of Medicine. In 2009, Dr. Carter was named Harris County Family Physician of the Year by the Harris County Academy of Family Physicians.

- Don't get overwhelmed.

Don't let the pressures from shopping, coordinating social functions and negotiating family issues get you down.

- Delegate.

Don't try to do it all by yourself. Break down tasks and dole them out to friends and family so they become more manageable.

- Spend some time alone.

Some people love the energy and exuberance of holiday parties and activities. For others, it's exhausting. If you find yourself getting a little anxious, take a breather. Relax and recharge your batteries.

- Let go of the past.

Don't be disappointed if your holidays are different than they used to be. Life brings changes. Don't dwell on the "good old days." Embrace the present as well as the future. Chances are, you've got some "good old days" that are still in the making – don't miss them by constantly looking back.

- Avoid drinking too much alcohol.

It's easy to overindulge around the holidays, but excessive drinking can make you feel more depressed. Remember that driving under the influence is dangerous and illegal.

- Don't hesitate to seek professional counseling.

If, despite your best efforts to remain upbeat, you find yourself feeling down for a sustained period of time, get professional counseling. True clinical depression is serious. There are treatment options that could make a big difference in your outlook.

The Journey of Your Best Life!

These questions will help you focus on every aspect of your health. Make sure you bring this flyer to your next visit with your Primary Care Physician (PCP) to discuss.

HERE

1. Physical Health

How would you rate your physical health?

- | | |
|------------------------------------|------------------------------------|
| <input type="checkbox"/> Excellent | <input type="checkbox"/> Very good |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Good | <input type="checkbox"/> Fair |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Poor | |

Your awareness of your health has powerful impacts on your ability and motivation to make lifestyle changes.

2. Physical Activity

In the past 12 months have you talked with a physician about your exercise habits or physical activity?

Before starting a new exercise routine, make sure you discuss the type of fitness plan that will work best for you with your PCP. Remember that a SilverSneakers® fitness membership is included with your KelseyCare Advantage plan.

3. Mental Health

How are you feeling mentally?

How often during the last month have you:

- ☐ Felt calm or peaceful
- ☐ Had a lot of energy
- ☐ Felt sad or down

It can be hard for people to talk about their feelings, but mental health is just as important as your physical health. Your physician can work with you to form a mental health prevention and treatment plan.

4. Fall Prevention

In the past 12 months have you had a problem with your balance, walking, or have you fallen? Your PCP can assess your risk and provide suggestions to help avoid falling. Regular vision and hearing tests can help.

Share with your provider all medications and supplements that you are taking as some medications may make you more prone to falls.

5. Bladder Control

Do you find yourself often rushing to the toilet or avoiding social gatherings? Many people suffer from urinary incontinence (urine leakage). If left uncontrolled, it could lead to falls, isolation, and depression.

Rushing to the restroom, especially at night, increases your chances of falling. Don't let embarrassment get in the way of discussing treatment options. Your Kelsey-Seybold physician can work with you on treatment options.

6. Care Coordination

All Kelsey-Seybold Clinic physicians have access to your medical records to better coordinate your care. So, you'll never have to worry if they're seeing the latest information regarding your health! However, if you see a provider or seek care outside of Kelsey-Seybold, be sure to tell your physician so that this information can be included in your medical record.

9. Getting Necessary Care

Discuss your treatment plan with your physician and ask questions so that you understand why they consider certain types of care and tests essential to your health.

10. Getting Care Quickly

If there is a delay in obtaining an appointment with your PCP please call the appointment line at 713-442-0000 (TTY: 711) and ask about any other providers that may be available to see you sooner. Remember, you can go to any Kelsey-Seybold location to receive your care.

11. Prescription Drugs

How easy has it been to get the prescription drugs you need using your KelseyCare Advantage plan? Discuss any issues that you may have experienced with your physician to come up with the best solution, including them possibly prescribing a different medication that is covered by the plan.

To ensure you receive your prescriptions easily and on time, we offer multiple ways to help!

- ☐ Pick-up your prescription from any Kelsey Pharmacy
- ☐ Kelsey Pharmacy mail delivery
- ☐ Kelsey Pharmacy same & next day Courier Delivery, at no cost!
- ☐ CVS Retail Store & Mail Order
- ☐ HEB Pharmacies

Refills can be requested online at kelseypharmacy.com, with the Kelsey Pharmacy app, or by calling the Kelsey Pharmacy location.

7. Health Care Quality

From 0 to 10, what number would you use to rate your healthcare experience in the last six months? Discuss your experience with your physician so that they can learn from it and make improvements.

8. Flu Vaccine

Get a flu vaccine! The CDC reports that hundreds of thousands of people are hospitalized each year, and thousands die each year, from flu-related causes. The flu changes each year, so the best protection is to get vaccinated annually. Talk to your doctor about the best time of the year to get vaccinated.
